With two locations in Kuala Lumpur, the Taiwanese restaurant chain called Din Tai Fung has established itself as the place to go for out-of-this-world Xiao Long Bao (steamed dumplings) and other classic Chinese fare.

Wildly popular throughout Asia, Din Tai Fung was established in 1958 in Taiwan, and has made its reputation by serving up sumptuous Shanghainese cuisine at extremely reasonable prices.

The food franchise is also known for its superior service, fresh and fine (and often imported) ingredients and high standards of hygiene.

The two outlets in Malaysia – at The Gardens and Pavilion KL – are elegantly designed and decorated in a charming Chinese style.

Beyond the array of steamed dumplings, the menu at Din Tai Fung offers a wide range of selections including salads and soups, various noodle and rice favourites as well as signature dishes such as sweet and sour chicken.

For an authentically appetizing taste of China, come to Din Tai Fung.
